Greetings from Suzanne,

Wikipedia states that "a New Year's resolution is a promise that you make to yourself to start doing something good or stop doing something bad on the first day of the year." I would add that they are things that should improve that person's quality of life.

I try not to make New Year's resolutions because then I do not have to feel guilty when I break them. Instead, this year I am reaffirming some goals rather than making resolutions.

1) I will continue to work exercise time into my busy schedule because it makes me feel (and look) better.

2) I will keep in touch with family and friends. Friendships are the bread of life for me; they nourish my soul.

3) I will continue to grow in weaving by taking a workshop (or two) and by attending a conference. I've never been to Rhode Island, so Convergence (July 14-19) is a good reason to make that happen. Rhode Island is rich in textile history and at least one tour will be on the agenda.

4) I will go bird watching on a regular basis because I cherish my birding friends and love the challenge of identifying birds by sight and sound.

Give yourself permission to be the best you can be. Set some goals, and feel good about those that you accomplish.

Happy New Year to all!

Suzanne
